

A couple of tourists are holidaying in Wales and while in Llanfairpwllgwyngyllgogerychwyrndrobwyll-llantysiliogogoch they called for something to eat.

Having finished their meal, one of the travellers who was struggling with the pronunciation of some of the Welsh names asked the waitress

“ Excuse me – I don’t mean to be a pain but would you mind just settling an argument for us? Could you slowly pronounce the name of the place where we are please?”

The waitress replies “ Of course sir – No problem..”

So she leans over and says...

“Burr Gerr Kinng.....”
